This shows changes made, possible back before you had looked at it again. But, it shows the type of conforming edits I mentioned. It also shows edits of striking out and replacing the same text for some reason. Don't know why.

Thanks, Robert. I'll look this over and understand from Erik the sensitivities with any additional changes now that the final SNUR has been signed. It would be easier for me to review it, however, if you had a redline strike out version so I can better identify any last minute versions. Can you easily send me a redline strikeout version?

The attached response to comments is in the SNUR docket, but not public—nothing will be public until the FRN publishes. Changes were made since you saw it last to conform it with last-minute FRN changes from the OCSPP IO. Considering the IO wasn't asking for the RTC and the fast turnaround on getting the FRN signed, folks didn't see the last attached version. That said, there aren't any substantive discrepancies.

I did notice a minor formatting issue of a couple paragraphs blending together (no space) that we can fix and will plan to do so. Barring any other direction, I plan to post this to the docket as metadata ready so that it posts with the FRN and references upon publication in the Federal Register.
